

A Keyboard for Movie Night

Written by Marco Attard
10 April 2014

---

Customers making use of Home Theatre PCs or connected TVs might find use for the Logitech Illuminated Living Room Keyboard (K830)-- a slim wireless keyboard armed with built-in trackpad and backlit keys.

It features 10m wireless range via 2.4GHz connectivity and soft-feel keys supposedly optimised for media and entertainment control. As mentioned above the keys are backlit, and automatically dim or brighten according to the amount of light in the room.

According to Logitech the rechargeable battery provides up to 10 days of use per charge, and users can assign media shortcuts to the one-touch function keys.

The keyboard is available now.

Go Logitech Illuminated Living Room Keyboard