The Raspberry Pi Foundation launches an official case for the popular Raspberry Pi micro-computer, one the foundation says has "the kind of real beauty and design that our products try to encompass."

Designed by Kinnair Dufort, the Raspberry Pi case has a removable top and sides to accommodate particular deployments or environment. It also hackable, with features specific areas of weakness allowing for drilling or mounting.

The foundation adds the case has no obstructions to the various connection points and ports of the micro-computer.

The official Raspberry Pi case is available now.
