The recently announced 10.5-inch iPad Pro gets a Logitech keyboard case-- the Slim Combo, a combination of hard case, adjustable stand, detachable keyboard and Apple Pencil holder.

The case does not carry a battery, since it sips power directly from the iPad via Smart Connector. Users can fold the keyboard palm rest under to reduce its size (such as during typing on one's lap) or even fold over the entire keyboard to protect the display while on the go.

Meanwhile the keyboard is a full-size number complete with backlit keys and a row of iOS shortcuts, including Home, screen brightness, search, media controls and keyboard language switching.

The Slim Combo is available now.
