

Protecting iPads, Netbooks From Danger

Written by Marco Attard
01 February 2012

Tough case maker Pelican takes a look at the iPad and netbooks with the 1075 and i1075 HardBack Cases-- cases tough enough to protect devices from heights of up to 1m.

The company says 1075-series cases are dustproof, watertight and crushproof, with built-in automatic purge valve keeping water and dust out (while balancing air pressure) and an easy-open latch that remains shut under pressure or after impact.

Inside the case is a shock absorbing liner with cutout space for devices. The i1075 case not only has space for an iPad, but also an Apple Bluetooth keyboard and a power adapter. An integrated easel provides hands-free viewing in both horizontal or vertical positions.

All cases also include a removable shoulder strap, and weigh around 892g when empty.

Go Pelican 1075 and i1075 HardBack Cases