

An iHome Office for Tablet Users

Written by Marco Attard
25 April 2012

Tablet accessory maker iHome promises "office quality accessibility" with the iDM5-- a Bluetooth-enabled workstation for mobile device users with a full-sized QWERTY keyboard.

It comes complete with x2 USB ports, ideal for keeping devices charged while working, and a built-in microphone for speakerphone functionality.

The ergonomically angled keyboard is coupled with a sound system, allowing users to stream music through either Bluetooth or universal 3.5mm aux line-in jack.

Being Bluetooth-enabled it is compatible with most (if not all) mobile devices.

Go iHome iDM5