

Qualcomm Atheros Gets the Bigfoot

Written by Marco Attard
06 September 2011

Qualcomm subsidiary Qualcomm Atheros buys Bigfoot Networking, in a quiet acquisition completed last month.

Bigfoot are known for high-performance networking devices for the gaming market, such as the Killer network card line.

Qualcomm Atheros says it will use Bigfoot technology to create "intelligent solutions for managing multiple, rich-media streams for a superior online experience across online games, streaming HD video and audio and real-time communications."

The company will continue supporting existing Killer customers as it moves offices.

Go Qualcomm Atheros & Bigfoot